The worst blizzard of the winter arrived on Sunday last, and stayed with us for the customary three days, leaving for parts unknown on Wednesday morning. The trails are badly drifted, and the passenger was late a hour on Tuesday night and two hours late on Wednesday morning.

It isn't necessarily the right road because it is well beaten.

Quite a number from Consort attended the Concert and dance held here last Tuesday evening, but owing to the inclemency of the weather, there was only a part of the attendance that was expected.

Oil News

We are informed that there is something of a mix-up at our local Imperial Oil drill. It appears that the main oil well is filling up fast with water and quicksand, while in the well that they were drilling for water, there is apparently more oil than aqua pura. The oil indications were struck at a depth of 440 feet, and as far as we can ascertain, the indications are identical with those of Fort Norman which were struck at a depth of 100 feet.

KIRRIEMUIR

On Thursday next, the 24th February, at 4 p.m. there will be an organization meeting held in the school, for the purpose of organizing a local Branch of the Great War Veterans Association.

A special invitation is extended to all persons, male or female, who have seen active service in the Great War, with any Allied Army or Navy, in Canada or Overseas, to attend this meeting. The Ladies have kindly offered, and will serve light refreshments at the close of the meeting.

After the 15th in the evening, there is going to be a dance held in the Hall, and we are going to have the celebrated Monitor Citizens Band to play the music. A hearty invitation is extended to all to make this the Big event of the Season.

GIVE THE G. W. V. A.
A BOOST

On the seventeenth of Ireland, there will be a big dance held at Kirriemuir to celebrate the occasion. The dance will be held under the auspices of the Womens Institute, and the proceeds are to be devoted to a very worthy cause, namely, renovating and providing furnishings for the School. We hope all members of Kirrie district keep this date in mind and make an effort to be there. We are not sure whether or not tickets will be sold, but at any rate see that you are not conspicuous by your absence.

The School Concert by the Monitor School was a success and reflects credit upon the pupils and teachers. The school choruses by the entire school were well rendered. The entire program of two hours and twenty minutes was well received and was varied in its character. Many of the numbers were in costume. We believe such events are very beneficial and hope to see more of them.

The Dance by the Monitor Citizens band at the close of the Concert was enjoyed by the crowd of young people who remained.

Don't forget that the Toronto Ladies Quartette will be here next Tuesday Feb. 22. Come and enjoy yourself.

Tommy Watson, who has been absent from our midst for some time, seeing what the interior of a hospital looks like returned to town last week. Glad to report a perfect recovery.

The Monitor Citizens Band filled an engagement at Consort on Monday last when the G. W. V. A. held a big Masquerade Ball. A splendid time is reported.

G. E. Dickson, who for the past two and a half years has been a member of the staff of the local Bank of Commerce, left on Monday morning for Claresholm Alta., at which place he will be stationed. During his stay here "Dickie" has made a host of friends, all of whom regret exceedingly his departure. We wish Dickie "good luck" and a happy life in his new surroundings.

Replacing Mr. Dickson on the staff of the Bank here, is Mr. Gilliam of to whom we extend greetings.

The Monitor Meat Market have installed an up to date safe in their premises. Jack must be looking forward to the oil boom this coming spring.

Rev. W. S. Wickenden paid a week end. The service on Sunday was taken by his brother.

The O. N. O. Girls are expecting the Zedeler Symphonic Quintette to be in Monitor on or about the 11th of April. We would advise those who are fond of real music to make an effort to be present on this occasion, as the programme offered will be one of exceptional merit.

This week two of our double daffodil bulbs, came out in their full beauty. We got the bulbs from Doc Larder last fall, and have been carefully tending them ever since. After seeing them it sure was worth it.

Governments as Co-operators

Ten or fifteen years ago the popular demand in connection with the solution of large and grave problems affecting economic and marketing conditions in these Western Provinces was for Government ownership and operation. This demand was, perhaps, most insistently urged in connection with interior and terminal grain elevators. Today, no such demand is made, nor is there any expressed wish for the adoption of such a policy.

The reason for this marked change in public opinion is not far to seek. Manitoba tried Government ownership and operation of interior elevators, and it was far from being a success, either financially or in the character of the service rendered. Saskatchewan, on the other hand, tried the experiment of creating a large co-operative company, composed of the farmers themselves, managed and controlled entirely by farmers, but assisted with the financial backing of the Provincial Government.

From its inception the Saskatchewan experiment has been an outstanding success. That success has been due to the whole-hearted and loyal manner in which the farmers have supported their own institution—something it was predicted they would not do; it has been brought about by notably careful and efficient management; and, lastly, it has been made possible because of the sympathetic treatment accorded on all occasions by the Government, which has placed the resources and credit of the Province back in the control and management of that enterprise.

Saskatchewan has borrowed millions which have been loaned to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Co. but that Company has met every payment of principal and interest as it has become due, and the Provincial treasury and the Saskatchewan taxpayer has not been called upon to put up a dollar. In addition to these direct loans, the Government has pledged the Provincial credit for other millions by giving guarantees to the Banks for the repayment of loans made direct to the Company. It is an acknowledged fact that without this Government backing, the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Co. could never have succeeded in its earlier years, nor have achieved the fine record which stands to its credit. So successful, indeed, did the Saskatchewan experiment prove to be, that the other Provinces finally adopted it. And co-operative interior elevators have been followed by terminals owned and managed by these same companies.

The splendid results achieved by co-operative elevators led to the formation in Saskatchewan of the Province-wide co-operative creamery company, which took over all the Government owned and operated creameries, and has established many new ones and enlarged the old ones. It is repeating in the field the success of the co-operative elevator companies, and has established cold storage plants and other subsidiary enterprises.

Next came co-operative stockyards, which are yet in their infancy but which promise to become an important factor in the development and prosperity of the livestock industry of the West.

Co-operative wool marketing is now recognized as the most feasible and best method of handling the wool clip of the West, and has for some years past demonstrated its practicability by obtaining for the sheepmen of the West a higher price for raw wool than could otherwise have been secured by them.

Co-operation between Government and people has also resulted in Saskatchewan in a very rapid extension of rural telephone lines and facilities throughout the Province, bringing the farm home into immediate and direct communication with market towns, doctors and nurses, and removing to a large degree that isolation from which the farm home suffered in the past and which was one of the chief obstacles to keeping many people on the land.

The successes which stand to the credit of all enterprises in the West based on the co-operative principle have resulted in the development of a pronounced public opinion that it was far better not to rely absolutely upon a parental form of government, but, by co-operation of Government and people, build up a sturdy, self-reliant Province and Dominion. Now when a difficulty presents itself, people do not weakly turn to Governments with demands that they solve the problems for the people, but the people themselves tackle the problem and, with Government assistance, are proving their ability to solve and overcome their difficulties.

Another valuable feature of this adherence to co-operative principles and methods is found in the practical training being afforded thousands of farmers' sons in the conduct and management of large business enterprises. The value of such training can hardly be over-estimated, and is having its effect in the adoption of more business-like methods in all departments of the farm, resulting in the saving of countless thousands of dollars in many small ways to the farmers in their own operations. Strict business methods are replacing slipshod ones while at the same time the man on the land is kept in close touch with world conditions and markets, and is steadily securing a larger grasp of those economic forces which have a direct bearing on the price of his product and his resultant prosperity.

STORMY WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The stormy, blustery weather which we have had during February and March is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them in the house. They are often confined to overcrowded, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Home Made Bread

Home made bread is without doubt the cheapest and most healthful food that can be produced for human consumption. It is the most completely digested solid food in the world, over 90% of it being transformed into health and strength. It yields nearly twice as much nourishment as rice or potatoes, and is ten times as nourishing as an equal value of meat. No bread is more truly wholesome or more perfectly satisfactory than that baked at home in which Royal Yeast Cakes are used.

Scientists have discovered a new and truly wonderful use for Royal Yeast Cakes. Physicians are prescribing it with remarkable success for conditions attributed to poor blood conditions. Soak a cake of Royal Yeast for half an hour in a cup of lukewarm water with one teaspoon sugar. Then stir well and strain once or twice through muslin and drink the liquid. BETTER results will be obtained by allowing it to soak over night and drinking half an hour before breakfast. Repeat as often as desired. Send name and address for free booklet entitled "Royal Yeast for Better Health."

"I reckon the old devil has a pretty good mortgage on my soul yet," he went on, his voice husky. "I know there'd have been killing done right then if it hadn't been for me and Gloss and Grumpy. They wouldn't let me shoot. They begged for me not to shoot. I heard some of the gang say: 'We've got to get that girl, boys.' I scarcely knowed what they meant—not then. There was a pot of bolin' pitch on the crane there that I was gettin' ready for boat calkin, and just as they barged the door open I hurried that pitch plug into them. I reckon it scared 'em all right, 'cause they scattered back purty quick, and when I pecked through the crack I could see them runnin' for the timber. 'Back everybody, there's somebody comin', I heard someone shout. That's all I know now. But I wish I knowed why they wanted to steal little Gloss."

"I reckon we're goin' to know why right soon," mumbled Paisley.

He stood by the open door and the cold night was aglow with big early winter stars hanging above the roof fringe. In their light, beside his old resting-place, the ash-gum, lay old Joe. An owl hooted from a nearby tree-top of the forest stood out, stirred and voiced their alarm in shrill peepings and squawks. But old Joe did not awaken and turn three times around. No more would he arise in the golden or silvery night and stretch and yawn his thanks for life to the deep skies.

Suddenly, bayward, a streak of crimson darted aloft and licked the heavens. Paisley started, and pointed toward it. Boy and his father followed Bill's gaze.

"It's Hallibut's schooner," exclaimed Boy; "she's on fire."

As they watched, a sheet of orange-yellow flame drifted up and the point-ends of the forest stood out in a broad expanse of fiery spikes, fluctuating and drifting between earth and heaven. In silence they watched the wild light until they crept down from the skies and the owl's low hoot sounded again from the shadow.

The men looked at one another. "Surely hell is awake this night," said Paisley, wiping his eyes on his buckskin sleeve. "Thank God it'll soon be daylight."

Boy picked up his rifle.

"I'm goin' to look for Davey," he said.

"In a little while, Boy, in a little while," soothed Paisley. "I'll be right then, and you can see. No use to go yet, lad. See it's comin' down now, and it'll be safer for you then."

"Aye, lad," spoke McTavish firmly, "we must make no false moves now. The fight's on and our new law must be lived up to. If we sin in killing them who wish to kill us, why, sin we must. The only brother I had in the world was massacred because he found killin' a red snake hard. Well! show no mercy to devils that would try to steal our little girl."

Boy had drawn the dead dog into the room and was stroking its long red hair with his hand.

"It's not in reason to think Hallibut 'ud get in his work here and turn back and set fire to his own schooner," said Paisley. "He's done it, though, to make a case against us. We can't deny sayin' that we'd stand up for our own. They thought if they could get hold of Gloss that we'd give up the deeds to our properties to get her back."

"Who was in the gang?" asked Boy. "I only saw two of them when I opened the door," replied McTavish. "I saw the agent Watson, and I saw Simpson the teacher—he was with 'em."

He broke off, his jaw dropping. Boy sprang to his feet, his face twitching in a fury of hate. His strong teeth had bitten blood from his tightened lips, and he stared across toward the approaching dawn to where the scar of civilization lay upon the Wild. The two older men glanced at each other and the father shook his head. The question asked in Paisley's eyes was beyond all answering from him.

Not until the red sun had cut a disk in the misty eastern skies did Boy turn and sit down weakly on a stool. Then Paisley was the first to break the gloomy silence.

"Boy," he said, putting his hands on the shoulders of that drooping form, "me'n you have been through close shaves together; have chopped logs again the two next best choppers in Bushwhacker's Place; have hunted and fished together. And I reckon we're pals now if we ever goin' to be. It's 'cause I've been through purty much the same thing as you're goin' through now that I want to speak a word. You've made up your mind to get even with the teacher. Boy, don't you do it—not until you're sure o' what you may only fancy now. Why, you'd just finish him if you ever got started. Let me help you untangle this riddle, and let me give Simpson his deserts like a good old pal ought to do."

Boy shook his head.

"Bill," he said in hard, even tones, "you've a mighty big claim on me. I know that better'n you do. You know that I'd follow any advice of yours in reason, same's I'd always done. I'll promise to do this much. I'll let you find for sure that he was with the gang before I hit; but it's got to be done by me, Bill."

He was pale now, his eyes shining bravely, then passed into the next room.

Paisley felt in his pocket and brought forth a smoke-grimed pipe. He twisted off a piece of Canadian Green tobacco the size of a walnut, crammed it into the spacious bowl, and, applying a coal from the fire, smoked as though his life depended upon his filling the room with blue smoke in a specified time. Next, he turned to Big McTavish, who sat bent before the fire.

"It's funny, ain't it?" he whispered, nodding toward the other room.

McTavish drew himself up slowly. "What's funny, Bill?"

Paisley carried his stool over close to that of the father. His face was working and the blue clouds of raw tobacco smoke floated from his lips in mountainous billows. He placed the stool down and sitting on it, peered into the older man's troubled face.

"Mac," he said gently, "there ain't

The marriage of these two essences, the air and bronchial troubles, that's what thousands say about Catarrhose. There is nothing so sure to relieve, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lung-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog or dampness is the rule—let them get Catarrhose and use it several times daily—it will relieve every time.

Large size, Catarrhose, sufficient for two months use, guaranteed, price $1.00; smaller size, 50c; sample size, 25c. Sold everywhere.

the likes of that boy of yours anywhere on this continent. He's got a terrible power in him. He's got that sympathy, and he's got a heart that's hell when it gets set on a thing. It's set on Gloss, and I reckon no earthly power is so keen to keep them two from makin' a clean job of it. But, Mac, Boy's heart don't stop there, by a long way. It's got a huttin' side to it, and a regular injun-hatin' side it is, too. I'd naturally want to know that I had a clean slate with the white punter before I tried interferin' with anythin' Boy called his."

Paisley jerked his head sideways. "And I reckon Gloss is his, 'cause they are just made for each other. Well, now, this teacher chap he seems to think different, or else why should he be interested in havin' Gloss kidnapped away? He's just about let himself commit suicide with his conceit. He's a bad one, and maybe deserves all he's got, but you and me mustn't let Boy at him. Now, it's for you to save Boy from himself. I'm goin' over and have it out with Simpson now, and then I'm goin' to warn him."

He's in for it if he keeps on hangin' around these parts. Boy'll never forgive me for warnin' him, but I can't help that. I'm goin' now, he concluded, rising, "and you see that you don't let Boy out of your sight till I'm back."

Paisley reached for his cap and gun and stole from the house. It had frozen during the night, and an open slash across the face of the creek showed where a skiff had crossed a not many hours before. Reaching the clump of willows, he saw his own canoe lay hidden. Paisley pulled it forth and crossed the creek, breaking the thin ice with his paddle. At Ross's landing he found a three-seated skiff. There were two empty bottles on its bottom and a crumpled handkerchief beneath one of the seats. Paisley picked up the handkerchief. It was of linen and of a kind not used by the people of the bush. He put it in his pocket and walked slowly toward wardward Ross's home. On the threshold he was met by Mary Ann. There were dark shadows beneath her eyes and her lips trembled when she spoke his name.

"Bill Paisley," she whispered, and, closing the door behind her, she mentioned him into the open Ianto. "Hallibut's boat was burned last night. I suppose you know it?"

"Yes," he said, "I know it, Mary Ann," he answered.

"Did you see Mr. Simpson last night, Bill?" she asked.

"Well, he went deer-shootin' by starlight with some men from Bridge's town, and he was hurt in some way. I heard them come back here three hours ago, and they were talkin' about it. They had a couple of extra horses with them. They took him away with them."

"A couple of extra horses?" mused Bill. "Aoud he asked."

"Is he comin' back here any more, Mary Ann?"

"I don't know," she replied. "I hope not."

"You hope not?" he said quickly. "Are you sure?" They do say you and him are—"

"I can't help what they say," she said wearily. "I'm glad he's gone, Bill."

"No."

"You hope not?" he said quickly. "Are you sure?" They do say you and him are—"

Paisley stood his rifle against a tree. His face was aglow with hope.

"Mary Ann," he said gently, "you've known me a long time, and you know just why I ask this question. Has he been a square with you?"

She gazed at him in wonderment. "Squarred with me?" she exclaimed, and laughed. "Well, you better believe he has been."

"Paisley caught the girl's hands and held them tight."

"And didn't you care for him a lot?" he asked huskily.

"No," she answered, her face averted. "I didn't care for him at all. He wasn't my style, Bill."

"Mary Ann," said the Bushwhacker, "so long's I thought you liked Simpson better'n me I kept away. Now, if I could learn somehow that you cared more for me than you do for anybody else, give my life, as Mrs. De-clue says, if I wouldn't ask you right out to be Mrs. Paisley. I've got a nice home all to myself and three old socks crammed with greenbacks made out of pelts, hid away again a widdin' with you, Mary Ann. You see, Mary Ann," he said wistfully, "I somehow knowed, or thought I knowed, you didn't mean right down business with the teacher. Now, girl, am I to be your old man or am I not?"

"You are, Bill," she whispered, hiding her face on his shoulder.

Widow Ross, coming out hurriedly from the house with a steaming pot of potatoes in her hand, saw something that almost made her drop her burden. There stood long Bill Paisley with his arms about her Mary Ann's waist.

"Bill Paisley," gasped the widow, advancing, "you get right away from Mary Ann. Ain't you ashamed of yourself? You're old enough to know better. Now, you get right away from my girl or I'll scald you with the hot potatoes I want to eat."

"She ain't your girl no more, wider," grinned Paisley. "She's mine now."

"Mary Ann," commanded her mother sternly, "answer me—be you?"

"Yes, ma," answered Mary Ann, and she snuggled down again.

Sale of Alberta Herefords In Chicago

Prizes Realized for the Total Herd Averaged $450 a Head.

An entire shipment of more than fifty head of Hereford cattle from the Curtice Cattle Company of Peace Valley, Alberta, has just been sold at Chicago. The prices realized for the total herd averaged $450 a head. Several particularly choice animals fetched more than $1,000.

It is interesting to note that eighteen head of the best cattle from this sale were purchased by a Chicago firm who have a large ranch almost adjoining that of the Curtice Company and intend shipping these animals back to Alberta where they will become the nucleus of another Hereford herd. With such stock as this for a foundation, this should soon grow into one of the best herds of Hereford cattle in the province.

An Attractive Dress of Black Net

By Gertrude Beresford.

The all-black dress always attracts certain women who realize that their beauty is greatly enhanced when attired in black. This model is fashioned from fine black net over a foundation of black crepe satin. The bodice shows the swathed lines that are quite popular at this time. The V-shaped neck opening is very pleasing, while the sleeves are wide and hardly full-length. The rather bouffant, curved side panels are trimmed with crepe ribbon. This mode or ornamentation is also apparent on the loose sleeves, while the neck opening is accentuated by similar trimming. Should a touch of color be desired a garland of flowers might be used as a girdle.

A WOMAN'S RIGHT TO GOOD HEALTH

Most Troubles Afflicting Women Are Due to Poor Blood.

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active life; yet nine out of ten suffer from some form of bloodlessness. That is why one sees on every side pale, thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures—sure signs of weakness, weak backs, aching limbs and uncertain health. All weak women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy attractive women. This new, red blood is supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these Pills thousands of women have found benefit when suffering from anaemia, indigestion, general weakness and those ailments from which women alone suffer. Among the many women who tell of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done them is Mrs. L. Hicks, Round Hill, N.S., who says: "I became very much run down in health; my blood seemed weak and watery, my strength failed, and I was so easily tired that my work was a burden. I had often read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them, and I can truly say that after using three boxes I found myself gaining, and under a further use of the pills all my old-time energy and vitality was restored. Out of my own experience I can strongly recommend this medicine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cause of Early Old Age

The celebrated Dr. Michenerhoff, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestines. When your stomach digests food properly it is absorbed without forming poisonous matter. Poisons bring on early old age and premature death. 15 to 30 drops of 'Seigel's Syrup' after meals makes your digestion sound. is

The Church and Its Work By The Rev. W. S. Wickenden

There are many reasons why Christians should keep Lent, but perhaps three are the most important.

1. The Church of Christ has observed the custom of thus preparing for Easter through out the centuries.

2. Christian common-sense tells us of the need of an annual "spiritual stocking."

3. Such is the will of our Lord Jesus Christ. He said "When ye fast" just as He said "When ye pray"

The object of self examination during Lent is that we may intelligently progress in the Christian life. May God's Holy Spirit stir us all up to so examine ourselves by prayer and self-denial that our lives may become more Christ-like. He is the Christians desire. May Lent 1921 help us to make true progress.
